

Contributors' Notes

Richard K. Neumann, Jr. is Associate Professor of Law at Hofstra Law School.

Kim Lane Schepple is Associate Professor of Political Science and Public Policy and Adjunct Associate Professor of Law at the University of Michigan. She is the author of Legal Secrets: Equality and Efficiency in the Common Law and is co-founder of the Conference Group on Jurisprudence and Public Law which sponsors panels on legal theory at the American Political Science Association meetings. She is currently at work on two books. One, called Nothing but the Truth: Fiction, Fact and Narrative in Law, deals with the legal construction of facts. The other is about abortion in comparative law.

Jeremy Waldron is Professor of Law in the Jurisprudence and Social Policy Program, University of California at Berkeley. Educated in New Zealand and at Oxford, he has published extensively on rights, justice and the history of liberal thought, and he is the author of The Right to Private Property (Oxford University Press, 1988) and Nonsense Upon Stilts: Bentham, Burke and Marx on the Rights of Man (Methuen, 1987). He is presently writing a book on the relation between need, desperation and social justice.

Carl Landauer received his Ph.D. from Yale University in 1984, has taught European History at Stanford and McGill Universities, and has written on topics in the history of the humanities. He is currently a member of the Harvard Law School Class of 1991 and is completing his term as Editor-in-Chief of the Harvard International Law Journal.

James Boyle is a Professor of Law at American University. He has written a number of articles on Critical Legal Studies, tort law, and international law. He will be a visiting professor at Boston University in the Fall of 1991, and at Harvard in the Spring of 1992.

Philip Rieff is Benjamin Franklin Professor of Sociology and University Professor at the University of Pennsylvania. He is the author of The Feeling Intellect, Fellow Teachers, The Triumph of the Therapeutic, and Freud: Mind of the Moralist.

Peter Berkowitz is Assistant Professor of Government at Harvard University.

